The friends of the Government are most auxious to have the cooperation of England after the troops are in persession of the Capitol. Complaints are made that the contributions for the French distressed operatives come in very slowly, and fail wofully short of what is needed. One hundred and fifty thousand france per day, at the very least, is required for the bare suste-

The latest dispatches say that the ministerial change will be confined to those already anneunced. The following is a synopsis of news by the Kangaroo: The Times' Paris correspondent says that Napoleon, at his New Year's reception, said to

Mr. Dayton that he regretted greatly the continuance of the civil war, but hoped before next

New Year's day that matters would be settled.

This was said, says the correspondent, with a sort of smile, and may be taken as a pious wish or prediction, or even as an indication, of something still more significant. To another person, who on the same day expressed to the Emperor the earnest hope that the battle of Fredericksburg might be the last, the Emperor observed that he desired so too, and hoped that the war would be ended by next spring. This incident created a great many conjectures. The Consitutionel denies that France has made any further mediation overtures.

AXXVIIth CONGRESS-THIRD SESSION SPNATE .- After our report closed yesterday -The bill for the discharge of state prisoners was taken up and discussed by Messrs. Powell and Wright. The following meesage was received and To the Senate and House of Representatives. I have signed the joint resolution to provide for the immediate payment of the army and ravy of the United States, passed by the House of Representatives on the 14th, and by the Senate on the 15th instant. The joint resolution is a simple authority, amounting, however, under existing circumstances, to a direction of the Secretary of the Treasury to make dollars in United States notes, if so much money is needed for the payment of the army and navy. My approval is given in order that every possible facility may be afforded for the prompt discharge of all arrears of the pay due our soldiers and our sailors. While giving this approval, however, 1 think it my duty to express my sincere regret that it has been found necessary to authorize to large an additional issue of United States notes, when this circulation, and that of the suspended banks together, have become already so redundant as to increase the prices beyond real values, thereby augmenting the cost of living to the injury of labor, and the cost of supplies to the injury of the whole country.

of United States notes, without any check to the issues of suspended banks, and without adequate provision for the raising of money by loans, and for funding the issues so as to keep them within due limits, must soon produce disastrous consequences. And this matur appears to me so important that I feel cound to avail myself of the occasion to ask the special attention of Congress to it. That Congress has power to regulate the currency of the country, can hardly admit of doubt; and that a judicious measure to prevent the deterioration of this currency by a reasonat le taxation of bank circulation, or otherwise, is needed, seems equally clear. Independently of this general consideration, it would be unjust to the people at large to exempt banks, enjoying the special privilege of circulation, from their just proportion of the public burdens. In order to raise money by way of loans most easily and cheaply it is clearly necessary to give every possible support to the public credit. To this end a uniform currency, in which taxes, subscriptions to loans, and all other ordinary public dues, as well as all private

The securing of this circulation by the pledge of United States bonds, as therein suggested, will still further facilitate loans, by increasing the present and causing the future demand for such tonds. In view of the actual financial embarrassments of the government, and of the greater mbarrassments sure to come, if the necessary means of relief be not afforded, I feel that I

The consideration of the bill to provide ways and means for the support of the government occupied the remainder of the day. From the Army of the Potomac.

A dispatch received at a late hour last night from the Headquarters of the Army of the Potomac refutes the rumors current yesterday that another advance had been made across the Rappahannock river. This dispatch, after stating that, several distinguished visitors had arrived yesterday, says that "beyond this nothing but the ordinary routine has transpired." The following extracts from a letter to the New York Tribune, dated near Fred-

"The ominous quietude in the past few days proves to have been the calm which precedes the storm. The tempest has not yet broken forth with the thunder of artillery and the keavens are too apparent to doubt that they presage a speedy renewal of the unsuccessful attempt of December 13. A few days will tell the story of success or defeat in ano her at-tempt at crossing the Rappahannock. "Every thing has been thus far auspicious. The roads are bard and dry, and the recent rain has fortunately not interfered with the success

So secretly has the movement thus far progressed that few in the army are aware of the important events which are close at hand.

"It is to be feared, however, that the enemy, who are so frequently in the secret of our ope of the undertaking. A strong south wind has rations, have too much knowledge of what is impending. Activity is too plainly visible upon the other side of the river to permit the hope that they will be un prepared for the present movement. Counter movements are observable, and it seems more than probable that the enemy are at present watching to see how they may best checkmate us in our undertak-. It is much to be regretted that the Army of the Potemac could not have been paid before the present movement had been commenced. It is useless to deny that, during the inactivity of the past month, a universal murmur has sone forth from the soldiers, who have beenmany for six months, most of them for four months-without a penny of their hard-carned wages. The prospect of a movement may possibly dispel all discontent and deepondency; but certainly Gen. Burnside is the most couragious of men to lead this army against the chemy in its present condition. PLOT TO ASSASSINATE GOV. MORTON .- A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial at Indianapolis says: "Gov. Morion has recently received letters, warning him of a plan to as-

It contained a correct plan of the governor's house, nd of the room in which he slept, with all approaches to it. The writer said her hueband had been led into the matter by wicked men, and she wanted to frustrate the design, to save him from its consequences."
